

WSJ.

FAIRY TALE ENDING Can couture find a new customer?

—
PLUS

CARLY FIORINA'S COMEBACK

THE HOUSE THAT LALA BUILT

THE REAL VALUE OF WATCHES

DOUG & MIKE STARN
ARTISTS

Day in the Life

"Our idea behind Big Bambú [their current installation on the Metropolitan Museum of Art's roof] was about interconnection and chaos," Doug says. "It's always changing, but it's always complete," Mike adds. They'll be adding to the project throughout the summer. As for working with your twin, they only say, "We're always talking; it's a conversation."

Blazer Icon

"That's an interesting question," Mike says. "Is it?" Doug asks.

On Doug (left): Blazer by Elie Tahari; shirt by Prada; pants by Levi's Cords by Opening Ceremony; shoes by John Varvatos. On Mike: Blazer by Prada; shirt by John Varvatos; chinos by Vince. Photographed at the Metropolitan Museum in front of Velázquez's "María Teresa" (left) and "Portrait of a Man" from Velázquez's workshop.